A description of the steps the program has taken to decrease the use of restraint and involuntary seclusion.	Children are screened for the program in a multi-step process before admittance to the program for aggressive and/or unsafe behaviors. If a child is determined to be at a high risk for needing a restraint, they would not be approved for day treatment as to

	minimize the risk associated with potential future restraints. All professionals employed by the program receive significant training in understanding the needs behind children's behaviors and de-escalation techniques to greatly reduce the need for the use of restraint, unless there is an incident in which there is imminent danger to the client or staff. All client's have a safety and behavioral plan written at time of admittance. This plan is re-evaluated and amended as needed throughout their treatment in the Day TX program to keep it current to the individuals needs. Client's caregiver's are made aware at the beginning of treatment that if child becomes physically aggressive and staff are unable to de-escalate, or multiple incidents of unsafe behaviors occurred while child is in program, client will be asked to return home to receive services through telehealth until a safety plan can be completed addressing behavior. Client's will not be able to receive ongoing Day TX services if safety plan can not be followed by the client and there is a continuing high risk of physical intervention needed.
